FAMILY SERVICES SOCIETY

Seeking Registered Social Workers Adoption and Birth Parent Work

Sunrise Family Services Society is a government-licensed B.C. Adoption Agency located in North Vancouver, that delivers services throughout the Province. Sunrise works with birth parents wishing to place their child(ren) for adoption, and adoptive parents applying to adopt domestically or internationally.

Sunrise is looking for Registered Social Workers, with the BC College of Social Workers (BCCSW), to work with adoptive parents to complete homestudies and post-placement reports, and to work with birth parents who are considering making an adoption plan. Applicants should be passionate about working with families, self-motivated and able to critically think and assess.

Applicants should have at least 2 years of social work experience, ideally in Child Protection and family assessment, counseling, or adoption and fostering. They must demonstrate skills in interviewing families, writing, and risk assessment. Multiple languages seen as a strength. Experience in facilitating parenting education is an asset.

You will be required to have your own transportation.

The openings available are contract positions in the Interior, Northern BC, the Cariboo Chilcotin, Thompson Okanagan, and the Kootenay Rockies. The hours of work are flexible, and will depend on the demand for homestudies or the number of birth parents in your area. Many of our contract social workers also have part time or full time work elsewhere.
